SATURDAY, AUGUST 8, 1878.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The Convention of the Union Republican party of the First Congressional District of West Vir-glata will be held in the town of Moundwille, Marshall county, August 23d, 1878, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress, and also for the promosation of such other handmans as may or of such other business as may ore the Convention. The Union Repu lican party of the District is requested to appoin der of the Republican Executive Commit-of the Flist Congressional District.

GEO. EDWARDS, Chairman.

KEARNEYISM. The suffix ism, quickly attaches itself to the prominent exponents of any peculiar in politics or religion. Hence the term Kearneyism, which is simply a syno nim representing the discontent of certain classes, clothed in the forcible, if not elegant style of language attributed to Den-nis Kearney, the noted California agitator. We say attributed to him, from the fact that the gentleman while expressing, like Butler, his contempt for the opinions of the press, claims nevertheless that he has been unjustly dealt with by reporters who have not placed him on record according to fact. He has the assurance, however, from the great metropolitan newsmen of the East that he shall have at their hands his Constitutional rights, that his speeches shall go before the country arrayed only in the garniture with which he himself shall invest them.

While the promise is but in accordance with strict justice, it conveys also a note of warning to the great agitator, that when his record is made up there will be no such thing as going back on it. In the estimation of the people of the East as well of the West, on this side of the Rocky Mountains, he must stand or fall by the reports of the metropolitan press. Just what Dennis Kearney has accomplished for the betterment of the laboring population of the Pacific coast, or whether he has accomplished any thing, is the X. Y. Z. in the problem of his sudden notoriety, from which the unknown quantity is to be solved. Whether it was the wise policy of an astute leader for him to leave the field upon which he had only, as it were, drawn up his forces in f battle, without having fought and bled and conquered, or at least obtained something in the clear light of compensation for the tremendous effort with which he is credited, remains to be seen. He is without the prestige of victory, has nothing but the echoes of the thunder of engagement upon which to rest his claims as a leader. If he has not established himself firmly in position on the Pacific coast, where the presence of the Chinere furnished him with that most powerful weapon, race prejudice, the wisdom of his entering the eastern field will remain doubtful for the present at least. Kearneyism is simply discontent with things as they are, o more properly, as they seem to be. The hard times are like the weakness which follows the delirium of a raging fever. Oaly careful nursing, rigid adherence to the strict rules which govern convales-cence can restore the normal strength and vigor of perfect health. As with the man so it is with the nation. The fever patient chafes under his weakness and his slow recovery, finds fault with his doctor, his medicine, his purse and his cook, all are in conspiracy against his rapid recovery, if they do not even seek his death. Who will say that the suffering patient is the best judge of that which will most quickly restore the wasted tissues, give strength to the weakened sinews and tone to the shattered nerves of his broken body. Times are hard, business is depressed, the nation is sick, but, notwithstanding the bitters, the pills, the restoratives and the thousand patent nostrums of quacks and empyrics there is no royal road to health. Judicious nourishment, not opiates and stimulants, and time are the absolute factors in the problem of restored health and in the problem of restored health and vigor.

Just now there is in session in New York city a Committee of the House of Representatives, a committee of political doctors whose special business is to make a diagnosis of the labor question with a view of accertaining, by consultation with laboring men or their representatives, the real condition of the masses, and prescribing a remedy, for the disase of hard times. It will no doubt be instructive to note with care the minutia of the progress of the research in this new field of investigation. "Already the fallacy of the sick, however intelligently, he may be able to state his case, advising a remedy is being developed. Thomas Rock, a spokesman for the stone masons, is the first to lay before the committee his views on the labor question. He farvors a rule requiring all government work to be done by the people of the place in which government buildings are being greeted. He objected to the system of contracter, thinks the government ought togenploy the work and being the contractor. He also ascribed much of the want of compation among his class to the use of machinery in the sawing of stone. He further entered into a disquisition upon the eight hour law, its advantages and disadvantages, in which he became so entangled in the meshes of his own ignorance that his committee on the subject of collecting labor statistics. His address covered swide a range that the Chairman of the committee on the subject of the Chairman, McGregor suggested hat the duty of the committee on the subject of collecting labor statistics. His address covered swide a range that the Chairman of the committee on the subject of the Chairman, McGregor suggested hat the duty of the committee on the subject of the Chairman, McGregor suggested that the duty of the committee on the subject of the Chairman, McGregor suggested that the duty of the committee on the subject of the Chairman, McGregor suggested that the duty of the committee on the subject of collecting labor statistics. His address covere

tion and do everything necessary for the welfare of the laboring classes. This certainly embraces a field wide enough, but fare in a crowded car where he could obit is questionable whether Mr. McGregor | tain no seat.

could offer anything in the way of particulars that would help the committee. At least they did not ask him for any aug-

Mr. McGregor also furnished a very striking difference between a man's theories and his practice. Having charged that the use of machinery was the cause of the lack of employment for men, and that in consequence the maintenance of families devolved upon women and children rather than men, the committee as to the truth of his statement. He declined on the ground that he (McGregor) did not believe in what was called the ever living and true God. Upon being asked how he could expect the Government to force others to testify under oath as to how they conducted their business, when he himself refused to make oath, comprising the District at such time and place as Mr. McGregor sought the shades of repoint.

A representative of the Granite Cutters next tendered his views on the subject and stated his belief that the depression in his trade rose from the contract system and machinery. He then alleged that he, (the witness,) had been dischagred from the Government work at Albany skilled workmen and were paid as much as skilled labor. The first section of this employers found him inclined to be more ornamental than useful. As o the latter clause of his statement, Mr. Hewitt, Chairman of the committee, directed the witness to embody his statements in an affidavit and he (Hewitt) would forward it to Secretary Thompson and have the matter investigated. There is no record, that the witness adopted the suggestion.

Such is the panning out of the fire day's work of the committee. There is nothing like a court of justice or a committee of Congressmen to take the con-ceit out of a man and reduce the aggregate of his self supposed knowledge to its minimum. It is there that a man finds that loose and exaggerated statements won't pass muster.

The sum of the above statements show that the committee had before them one man who imagined himself equal to the question under consideration, lost in a moment as it were, in the darkness of his own ignorance; another plethoric with plans and specifications for the erection of a fabric of prosperity unknown for years, has the wind taken out of his sails at the mere mention of an affidavit, and convicts himself as an unbeliever in anystanding as a witness in the courts of the feasance against government officers, failed to verify by affidavit. Yet such men in a large measure furnish the inflamatory statements which stir up the evil passions of ignorance and prejudice; such men have the assurance to undertake the representation of the intelli gent masses of American workingmen before a committee of American Congressmen. They are of the class who form the body of election strikers for men who aspire to hold or obtain office by charging that the Government controlled for the benefit of the rich and the oppression of the poor. Of such were the men who made way for the ascendency of Robspiere, Danton and Marat, the horrid triumvirate of the French revolution, whose bloody history nded in the despotism of Napoleon.

If the labors of the committee but oper he eyes of the working men of the United States, to the charcter of the war that is waged upon the government against society, against capital and all the material interests that enter into the prosperity of the people, they will have achieved a great and glorious work.

He decharge was for using virgin brushes opening special boxes of pomade and bottles of essence, but the juge de paix made him take off the $8 and pay the costs.

At a Texas ball a large number of married ladies who had brought their babes found it impossible to dance unless some of the gallant young men became tirement, and the committee are left nurses. The gallant young men took the without his valuable suggestions on that babies into another room, changed their clothes, so that no woman knew her own baby, and when the mothers reached home that night there was consternation, which in Texas is called fun.

The Tennessee widow who is reported to have married the Newport tramp and endowed him with a fortune of $100,000, has been interviewed by a less imagina from the Government work at Albany tive newspaper man. It is all true except for ventilating his views, and, further, the fortune, which pans out $95,000 that men were left at work who were not short. Still $5,000 and a widow are a good conquest for a traup.
